Electricity Loss Hits Monday

Gunshot damage to a 46,000 volt distribution line insulator on Industrial Road just outside of the Grayling City limits interrupted power to 7,650 Consumers Power electric customers for nearly three hours Monday morning.

The vandalism caused the cancellation of classes for more than 2,000 students in the Crawford AuSable Schools and the disruption of production at two area wood processing plants.

Consumers Power is offering a reward of from $500 to $2,000 for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for shooting the insulator. Tips can be reported anonymously, if need be, to a special toll free line set-up to receive calls: 800-351-6969.

"Thus far this year 30 shootings have caused $19,000 in damage to Consumers Power facilities, not to mention the damage and lost productivity needlessly suffered by our customers," said Charles Graham, Central Region General Manager for the utility.

Graham said that the utility takes "a very hard line," toward those shooting at insulators, and will vigorously pursue prosecution.

The utility's repair crews said that the damage appeared to be recently inflicted, perhaps over the last weekend.

3,800 Visit Historical Museum

The Crawford County Historical Museum had an increase in attendance this year with almost 2,700 adults visiting it and more than 1,100 children visiting. Visitors included people from 32 different states and eight countries besides the United States. One of the visitors last week was from Australia. The Museum is closed now for the winter but will be open for special occasions such as Christmas Walk, etc. Groups may schedule tours during the winter months by calling Bob Ruddy 348-7333 or Marie Akers 348-7559.

Help With Debts Available To Troops

(The following article was first published in the October, 1990, Money Magazine.)

Some of the 100,000 regulars and reservists called to duty since August because of the Mideast crisis will have at least one consolation: they may be able to slash their mortgage or credit-card bills. An obscure World War II-era law-the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940-puts a cap of 6% on the interest lenders can charge military personnel on all forms of debt, including mortgages, credit cards, student, auto and personal loans.

To qualify, servicemen or servicewomen must have incurred the debt before going on active duty. Those who meet the standard should contact their base's legal assistance office or send a copy of their orders to the lender, requesting protection under the law. The lender can resist, but only by getting a judge to declare that the borrower's ability to pay is not "materially affected" by military duty - which experts say few banks will try.

By Irene Pettyjohn

Camp Grayling's 1438th Engineer Detachment and the 106 Aviation Regiment from Grand Ledge were taken off alert status for possible Middle East deployment as of October 1.

The "stand-down" order came from Governor James J. Blanchard. Both units have been on alert since August 24.

Gov. Blanchard said Major General Vernon J. Andrews, Adjutant General of Michigan, said the "stand-down" of these two remaining units is more likely to indicate a change in priorities than an end to the call-ups.

"I have visited and talked with many of the activated soldiers and have been most impressed and grateful for the way their hometowns, employers, and the Guard itself has supported them," said Gov. Blanchard. "The nation is in this for the long haul, and we must make sure our support to the families who remain behind is likewise permanent and strong."

LTC Wayne Koppa, Commander of Camp Grayling, said he could only speculate that "when Operation Desert Shield was conceived, certain requirements prevailed, and now as the operation has developed, the requirements have changed."

"The word that the 1438th Engineer Detachment is no longer on alert status does not mean they could not be called again in a week or month if the requirements change again," continued Koppa. "The unit historically has enjoyed high strength and has received very high training ratings. If a unit had to go and perform its military job, I am confident that the 1438th could perform with the very best."

The Pentagon commended the two units, praising their "rapid response, high state of readiness, support and personal sacrifice as members of the total army during this period of international crisis."

According to a recent National Guard press release, three other alerted Michigan Guard units have been activated and have already left the state. The 1461st Transportation Company left Jackson on Sunday, September 30, for its mobilization station at Ft. Indiantown Gap, PA; the 460th Supply and Service Company left Midland on September 23 for its mobilization station at Ft. Knox, KY; and the 1009th Transportation Corps Detachment left Lansing September 23 for its mobilization station at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, IN. The 1009th is scheduled to depart Ft. Benjamin Harrison this week for the Middle East and the 460th and 1461st are also scheduled for eventual assignment to Operation Desert Shield.

OPERATION DESERT SHIELD LIST GROWS

The number of servicemen either living in Crawford County or native to the area now stationed in the Middle East stands at 25.

Anthony Henning of Grayling left with the 460th Supply and Service Company when the group called to active duty last month. His wife Tammy (Dehart) said the group left Midland on Saturday, September 23, for Fort Knox, Ky. They will be in Kentucky for about two weeks for additional training, health updates (inoculations) and issuance of uniforms and equipment. She said the unit is scheduled to ship out to Saudi Arabia at the end of this week.

Henning was a member of the 1071st Maintenance Company at Camp Grayling, but had volunteered to transfer to the 460th to help fill the unit. Tammy said his immediate orders are for 90 days, but she is quite sure his orders will be extended to six months. If war breaks out, Henning's orders will probably be extended to a year.

The 460th is supporting the 86th Airborne Division. Before receiving his call up order, Henning was employed at Camp Grayling as a civilian, hoping to be hired to a full-time position.

Improving County Roads Is On Many Local Taxpayers' Minds

When asked recently what the biggest complaint Grayling Township residents have when they pay their taxes, township treasurer Ruth O'Mara answered, "Why aren't the county roads better?"

About 20 percent of the Crawford County Road Commission's estimated $2.1 million budget is set aside for road improvements. Twenty-five percent is spent on snow removal. The remaining budget pays for road and equipment maintenance and wages and benefits. This money comes from gas and weight tax.

"We spent nearly $10,000 this year removing beaver dams," said Road Commission manager/engineer John Keir. "It's a constant problem that I think is getting worse."

Crawford County's road system consists of 170 miles of primary and 530 miles of local roads. Roads such as County Road 612, North Down River Road, and F-97 are examples of primary roads. About 155 miles of the primary roads are paved. All construction and paving of primary roads is paid for by the county.

Local roads connect primary roads and are smaller and less significant roads such as Stephan Bridge, Bald Hill and Conners Flat roads. Local roads are also found winding through the county's subdivisions.

Paving costs on local roads are shared by the road commission and residents on a 50/50 basis. Several townships, including Frederic and South Branch, pay 50 percent of the resident's portion.

FUTURE PAVING PROJECTS

Construction of the new McMasters Bridge should be completed in October. Crawford County has several other bridges with load limits, some as low as three tons, but Keir said he is doubtful Crawford County will be eligible for additional Critical Bridge Funds for a few years.

"Our bridges are not that significant or important when compared to other bridges in the state," he said. "Generally bridges that have been closed or those with load limits take priority."

Other paving projects scheduled for this fall are: Willows Road (South Branch Township), Wilcox Bridge Road (Jones Lake Road north), Petersen Road (Maple Forest), and North Lakeshore Drive (Lake Margrethe).

Next year the following three primary roads are scheduled for repaving: M-93 from Hartwick Pines to County Road 612, County Road 612 from M-93 to I-75, and Sherman Road from County Road 612 to the Crawford/Osego Landfill.

Local roads scheduled for paving are Billman Road (just outside Roscommon), Michigan and Euclid (Lake Margrethe), and Headquarters Road (tentatively).

Paving projects are selected on a first come first serve basis, depending on available funds and the number of projects on line for the road commission.

Keir said the only exception to this rule is if all the projects on line are from the same township.

"Then we will take three from Grayling and three from the other townships," he said.

Avalanche TV Channel Listings Expanded

Following the recent addition of channels to the cable system in Grayling, the Avalanche has expanded its television listings from 11 channels to 22 channels.

Most of the new channels such as the Discovery channel and the Disney channel have been added to the Avalanche TV Page. Because of space limitations only 22 of the 30 cable channels can be listed. Channels such as 24-hour news stations have been omitted.

Space considerations also have limited the hours of program listings from 4 p.m. to midnight. Listings were not available for this week from PASS but they will be added as soon as listings are available. The new listings are on page B-3 in the second section.

Avalanche, Writer Win 1st Place In State Newspaper Competition

The Crawford County Avalanche received two 1st place awards in the 1990 Michigan Press Association Better Newspaper Contest.

Avalanche columnist Nancy Lemmen took 1st place in the local columns category and the Avalanche Opinion Page took 1st place in the editorial page category.

A record number of newspapers, 137, submitted a record number of entries, 1,832.

Lemmen's column "Notes From The Woods" was named the best among all state weekly newspapers. The Avalanche Opinion Page was named the best among all state weekly newspapers with circulations of 5,000 or less.

It was the third year in a row the Avalanche has received MPA awards. In 1988, the first year the Avalanche entered the MPA contest, it took 2nd place for its editorial page. In 1989, the Avalanche took three honorable mentions for Lemmen's column, the Opinion Page, and for the Milltown Keepsake Edition.

The Wisconsin Newspaper Association judged the 1990 competition.

Dog Attack Connected With Training Bear Dogs?

To Whom It May Concern:

My family owns a cabin in Kalkaska County in the Clear Creek/Manistee River area just off the National Guard Reserve. On September 2, Sunday evening of Labor Day weekend, we had a very upsetting incident occur.

We began hearing dogs barking approximately 10:30 in the evening and could tell by their excited cries that they were hunting dogs. We assumed they were "coon dogs" and their owners were likely with them or nearby. We listened to them for approximately an hour and then everything became quiet again. At 1 a.m., my brother was awakened by dogs in the yard.

It was obviously a dog fight and he rushed outdoors to find three large "bear dogs" attacking his eleven year old Golden Labrador which was tied to a tree. These dogs were vicious. They did not respond to any noise or threats from people and were determined to finish their victim. There was no time to go for a gun and destroy these animals or the Labrador would have been history. It took physically beating these dogs with a piece of iron found lying nearby to finally send one whimpering off into the dark. Fortunately the other two followed.

These dogs were wearing transmitters. We now understand that in training "bear dogs" in our area these dogs are often just turned loose and the owners show up the next day to find them. Is this how "bear dogs" are trained? How do their owners know that these dogs are not pulling down deer, pets and other creatures on their evening runs? How do the owners know the dogs aren't entering campgrounds? We can assure you that no one showed up in our yard looking for them. If only we had been able to kill one maybe the owner would have come looking for his transmitter.

I'm upset! We had turned in late that evening after sitting by a campfire in our yard. I have a toddler and young son who were out in the yard with us late that evening. I also have pets I've always felt comfortable letting out for their evening bedtime routine. Now I'm afraid. What if those dogs had attacked one of my children? There are no phone lines in our area of the woods and therefore placing a call to an authority was impossible.

We understand from a conversation with the DNR that it is legal to train bear dogs on state land at any time. If they are not required to stay with their dogs how do they know they remain on State Land or hunt bear? Maybe hunting bear with dogs should be outlawed... it certainly doesn't seem the bear stands much of a chance being tracked by dogs.

Help! We're not sure where to go on this. We do feel that people should be made aware.

Notes from the Woods

By Nancy Lemmen

It was still not quite daylight when I registered for LOCAL MOTION '90 on Saturday, September 22.

It was cold and only twenty to eight in the morning, but already the course was marked and there was a general hubbub as workers went about completing their assignments.

It was fully daylight and the sun was shining when I returned at nine o'clock, ready to put in my time. I grabbed an apple juice and — I confess — a chocolate frosted doughnut, and set out to walk my laps around one of the cross-country ski trails at Hanson Hills, where LOCAL MOTION was held.

By this time, multi-colored balloons were hung, rock music blared from a boom box and members of the six teams were into their second hour of fundraising for the Crawford County Cancer Society.

What an unusual juxtaposition it was to the dread disease which we used to speak of in hushed tones as "The Big C": fun, movement, laughter, noise, color.

But really a great idea. As if the planners had decided, "Let's go out and have a good time and fight cancer while we're enjoying ourselves." And that is exactly what happened.

Participants could run, walk, ride stationary bikes, jump on mini-trampolines, play basketball and volleyball, ride paddle-boats, climb the hills or twirl hula hoops.

The only rule was that each team had to have one member on the course doing something at all times for four hours, from eight to noon.

The 32 participants ranged in age from Kevin O'Mara, who will turn two in November, to his grandpa Bill, who is 56.

There was face painting, a clown, a jigsaw puzzle for people to work on during breaks, and a balloon game with cancer information. White t-shirts with the LOCAL MOTION logo in black were given out to all who participated.

I was sweating when I completed an hour of walking. I probably would have sauntered around the course, stopping occasionally for more doughnuts, had I not joined fellow walker Chris Gerling on my second lap. She had been running the course, but graciously slowed her pace to keep me company as we both contributed our part to our respective teams.

We passed some folks who were walking at a strolling pace and others who left the marked course to run or walk a more rigorous path.

The sun had disappeared behind the clouds and rain began to fall by seven minutes to noon. But by then, the outdoor events were nearly completed, and team members were invited inside for a healthy lunch of vegetable soup and tossed salads.

At the beginning of the day, an honor/memory board had been set up near the snacks table and participants were encouraged to walk in memory of a cancer victim or in honor of a cancer survivor whose name was then posted in a visible spot.

And who of us in Crawford County doesn't have someone in each of those categories we could have walked for?

One of my grandfathers died from liver cancer, which, before it ran its nasty course, had travelled to the bones and the lungs. Just three months before his death he agreed with the doctors' recommendation to have his right arm amputated because it was broken clear through.

Another grandmother died a slow death by leukemia. Her last days in the hospital were spent praying for death, as her morphine prescription was not sufficient to stave off her constant and terrible pain.

A lovely, talented close friend of my mother fought off several bouts with cancer before it finally ravaged her entire body. She succumbed to it one Christmas Eve when she was in her late fifties. Her husband lay beside her until morning, before he could bring himself to call for an ambulance and give her up.

A family member fought off colon cancer for nearly three years longer than the doctors' prognosis of a few months. Though the chemotherapy treatments deprived him of his strength and appetite, they never stole his will to live. Finally, however, he wasted away to a thin, grey skeleton of the powerful man he once had been. And then soon he died, with his wife and one daughter at each side, holding his hands.

But cancer, deadly as it is, does not claim all of its victims. One of my favorite middle school teachers had been stricken with breast cancer as a young mother. Each time she went to the doctor for her periodic check-ups, her family and friends held their breath for her.

She survived — first one year, then five years, then ten years. Today — thirty years later — she is a retired principal who zips around the country visiting her five children and who dotes on her grandchildren.

Many strides have been made in medical science since I was young and the diagnosis of "cancer" just about implied death, sooner or later.

But those strides have come only through massive research, and the research has come only through money. Lots of money.

That's where efforts such as LOCAL MOTION '90 come in. The Crawford County effort raised $2,430.10, a respectable amount for its first attempt.

But we ought to be able to do better next year. The committee has set the second Saturday in September as its annual LOCAL MOTION day, and all of us who are capable of walking or contributing money should make plans to do our share.

Come on, mark your 1991 calendars now. Let's do it — for all of the victims, for all of the survivors, for all of us.

Almanack

By Richard Millman

Still a month to go

MANY FOLKS in Michigan have had it up to here — and beyond — with politics already this election year. That's only if they're paying attention, of course.

And there's still a month or so to go.

Political advertising and news stories and campaigning mostly seem to be headed in the wrong direction. Instead of telling how great they are and what positive things they believe in and intend to accomplish, most candidates are attacking their opponents, personally, and somewhat viciously.

That's true of the governor's race between incumbent Democrat James Blanchard and Republican challenger John Engler, and in the statewide U.S. Senate race between Democratic incumbent Carl Levin and Republican challenger Bill Schuette.

It's also true in many more localized races — for U.S. congressional seats and for posts in the state Senate and House, and maybe some others.

IT'S TOO BAD. Negative campaign tactics are old as the hills, yet they are rather recent, too.

Way back in history, political opponents said rally scandalous things about one another. U.S. Presidential politics in the 1800s is full of examples of nasty campaign tactics.

Things sort of evened out in more recent years. Up until recently, it was considered counter-productive for one candidate even to mention the name of his/her opponent. Why give publicity and recognition to the one running against you?

But that's all past the boards now. Maybe it's the advent of television advertising. With a brief spot — from ten to 30 seconds — a talented campaigner can throw quite a bit of dirt and nasty innuendo at an opponent; repeated often enough, some of it may even stick.

THE BLANCHARD-ENGLER and Levin-Schuette campaigns are full of examples going both ways.

All the principals agree the tactic is working, too.

Coming in for a lot of recent heat — at least from the Republicans — is the pro-Blanchard ad which shows residents of Mt. Pleasant criticizing Mr. Engler.

"If that's what they think of Mr. Engler in his own home town, how can he be any good?" is the question the pro-Blanchard ad poses. Of course, Mr. Blanchard is not shown,

nor is he even mentioned.

The on-camera performers are all Blanchard backers, of course. They were recruited by the local Democratic party. At least two of them have been Democratic candidates for local office this year.

Is that fair? It's an open question. But who could anyone expect Mr. Blanchard's backers to recruit for such an ad — Republicans?

ENGLER BACKERS, if they choose probably could produce a similar ad from Mr. Blanchard's home town of Ferndale, or from the U. S. Congress, where Mr. Engler certainly could find three or four former colleagues who don't think too much of Mr. Blanchard's tenure in Washington. Former U.S. Rep. Martha Griffiths might even volunteer.

But is it fair? Probably not. But on a fairness scale disgruntled party members probably are better than paid actors, who also have appeared in similar ads in other times and other places.

There's so much negative advertising going on that a lot of voters may be inclined to say "a pox on both their houses" and stay away from the polls. If there were a place to vote for "none of the above," that category might win.

If this assumption is accurate, then it indicates an anti-incumbent trend among some voters. Recent elections and primaries in other states also indicate a "throw the rascals out" sentiment. It could happen in Michigan's top races in November, too.

BUT IN MICHIGAN there's another slight problem.

If Michigan voters really want to clean house, and throw the rascals out, just which rascals should they vote against? James Blanchard has been governor for eight years, so he's an obvious target; but John Engler has been in the legislature for 20 years, so he is, too.

And in the Senate race, it's true that Carl Levin has completed two terms on Capitol Hill in Washington, so he's clearly an integral part of any mess that voters might perceive there; but Bill Schuette has been down there for the last six years, too, and obviously must share some of the blame. Of course there's enough to go around.

An, democracy..... nobody ever said it would be easy.

Cherish AuSable River Memories

To the Editor:

Fifty years ago my father Ernest R. Jorgenson and his best friend Hurl Deckrow often took me canoeing on the AuSable River.

As I recall Mr. Deckrow was a plumber in Grayling and part time game warden.

Both dad and his friend have passed away, so I will speak for them as well as myself.

For over fifty years we cherished our memories of those trips, and now pass them to my grandchildren.

I pray when they come back to grandpa's home town for a visit the AuSable is still there.

What Has Changed With Doctor Situation?

To the Editor:

What is the great mystery? Of course, I am referring to the upsetting news that Grayling is losing several doctors.

Not all that many years ago a new hospital was built by and for our community. Canister, pledges, donations, gifts, grants, suppers, and bazaar sales of all sorts were held to make this dream a reality.

What a day of celebration it was when the doors of the new hospital opened. What pride was shared by all, regardless of how big or how small their part in this undertaking.

I can well remember how thrilled everyone was too hear the news that an imminent surgeon was coming to set up practice here. Incidentally he came, did wonderful work, gained respect, raised his family and kept active until his retirement several years ago. We still see him on occasion when he returns during the summer.

What has changed so drastically, that those who now come find it necessary to leave? Are we not the same people now as we were then?

I would like to say a special thank you to Doctor Donald Burkley who, has taken good care of my medical needs for the past several years. Thankfully, I haven't heard any plans for his departure. Hope I'm around to wish him a happy retirement.

To Doctor Victor Mejia, who has seen fit to take his practice elsewhere, I wish you well. Needless to say, you will surely be missed. You have been my crutch to lean on, was patient, kind, and considerate and who above all listened and answered my numerous questions. God speed.

It is my hope that a replacement for all you doctors will be found and the worry and stress of losing a gifted physician will be short lived. Our greatest treasures are kept not in locked boxes, but in our heart and in knowledge that there are skilled hands to care for us in our helplessness.

Let's Talk About It By Joe Murphy

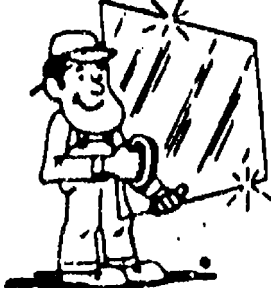

I guess my favorite summer passtime is about to end for this year. I and a multitude of other folks are yard sale buffs. When the Avalanche comes out I scan the list of yard sales. I have followed little signs so far back in the boonies they must have to pump daylight in there. But it is fun to check them out and try to find something you just have to have. This year I must have checked out two hundred sales. Really I found very little this year. I go looking mostly for pocket watches, hunting knives, guns, and gun parts. Outside a couple of knives I didn't have any luck. Women seem to be willing to part with their goodies while men hang on to every thing they have. When the season starts next year I hope some of you guys kick in with a few of your goodies. If you have some of the things I'm looking for give me a call and let's make a deal.

The way some people stew and worry about things that may never happen reminds me of an old story. It seems a man got stuck in the snow one night on a lonely country road. He didn't have a shovel with him and there was no way to get unstuck without one. He was wondering what he could do, when he noticed the lights of a farm house in the distance. He started through the snow towards the light. As he waded through the snow he started to stew about how the farmer would react to his request to borrow a shovel. He'll probably say no, and all this walking will be just a waste of time he mumbled to himself. Maybe he'll try to sell me a shovel, an old shovel not worth a dime, he'll want ten dollars for. He kept stewing away till he finally got to the farm house. He walked up and pounded on the door, the farmer came to the door and asked what his trouble was. The stranded motorist had worked himself in a dither by then. He said, "I just wanted to tell you where you can stick your lousy shovel."

The old man has got himself one of those new fangled Cam-Recorders. Now when I interview folks I can get their stories and faces down on tape and play them on my T.V. I hope some of you folks will let me make you the star of my little T.V. shows. What better way to spend a winter afternoon than getting the story of your life, times, and you down on tape. I know some of you old timers have a lot of history stored away in your head, let's get those stories on tape while we can. I can't write our local history if I don't know about it. So why not give me a call and we'll arrange a meeting and get your story on tape just as you tell it.

WE COME TO YOU

KEN TASKEY—OWNER
17 Years Experience

Saving Planet Earth By Carol Wakeley

Being concerned with the environment means being conscious of what is going on each day. It is good if you recycle, but you can go a bit further. Recycling alone isn't going to fix all the damage. There are no quick fixes. If we could stop all emissions, stop producing garbage, stop the killing of wildlife, nature would slowly clean itself up. Things would eventually get back to a normal condition. But of course these things are not going to happen. So what we have to do is reduce the mess we are creating each day. Maybe we can keep it from becoming worse.

One place you can start is in the grocery store. Become an environmental shopper. Following these simple steps can make you one.

1. Make a shopping list and stick to it. It is so easy to buy things on impulse. Especially when a product is packaged in a very attractive manner. This attractiveness usually means excessive packaging, which is going to be ripped off and thrown away as soon as you get home.

2. Plan meals with fresh ingredients. They are far more nutritious and use less wrappings, boxes, etc.

3. Try to buy items that are packaged in recycled or recyclable material. It will tell you on the package. Also, buy products in reusable containers.

4. Buy in bulk or large sizes. It will be cheaper and you will have less waste because there won't be so many smaller containers.

5. Use cloth shopping bags. They are durable and hold as much or more than a paper grocery sack.

6. Watch the way your groceries are bagged. Although baggers are taught to pack groceries in your bag a certain way, I find there is an awful lot of excess paper and plastic. Items that are sealed tight and already packaged in an outer container such as deodorants, cannot really harm any food items. I've never noticed the smell of shampoo, deodorant, or the like coming from its package until it is opened. If you prefer items such as health and beauty aids, cleaners, and pet foods to be separate from your food, purchase a cloth bag for this purpose only.

7. Refuse a bag. If you are just buying one or two items, it is senseless to have a bag. I have seen people request bags for a gallon of milk or a bag of dog food. You can carry them just as well without the bag, and no excess waste to the environment.

8. Read labels thoroughly. I apply this step when buying household cleaners. Bleach, whether chlorine or not, contains halogen compounds which are toxic to the environment. Phosphates from detergents create foaming in lakes and cause the algae blooms that choke out other aquatic life. Disinfectants contain formaldehyde and phenol compounds. These can be cancer-causing agents and toxic to the earth. Drain cleaners are corrosive not only to the drains, but to our bodies — inside and out.

New Law Affects School Bus Loads

A new law (Public Act 187) states that Michigan school districts are no longer permitted to carry more passengers on their buses than the capacity of the school bus.

To comply with the new law the Crawford AuSable School District will be double running some routes and adding others. It will also affect the district's policy on the issuances of daily bus passes.

After October 5, 1990, a bus pass request must be submitted in writing to the building secretary at least ten school days prior to the date needed. Priority consideration will be given to requests that involve transfer of students over an extended period of time, such as a request to go to a sitter's house after school. This additional time is necessary to allow bus pass requests from all buildings to be submitted to the transportation supervisor for approval.

Requests will be denied for any buses that can not accommodate the additional students within the legal limit.

"In the past we have been able to honor passes on various bus routes because we were permitted to have ten percent over the capacity of a school bus," explained assistant superintendent Paul Lerg. "This practice is no longer permitted under the new law. To comply with the change in the law, each building will no longer issue daily bus passes."

Lerg said the additional mileage together with the increased cost of diesel fuel will add approximately $15,000 to the school's transportation budget.

All routes will be scheduled so that transfer students will arrive at the Grayling Elementary School in time to catch the Frederic bus.

Sunglasses for Windows

It's like putting sunglasses on a window, says David Bibler, about applying Lumar, solar-controlled window films.

The Micro-thin, polyester-mylar films are virtually invisible when properly applied to existing windows.

But the films block up to 80 percent of the heat in summer and retain up to 65 percent of the heat in winter, says Bibler, co-owner of Quality Window Tinting in Traverse City, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, with his wife, Judy.

Three types of films — reflect-

Dog Attack Connected With Training Bear Dogs?

To Whom It May Concern:

My family owns a cabin in Kalkaska County in the Clear Creek/Manistee River area just off the National Guard Reserve. On September 2, Sunday evening of Labor Day weekend, we had a very upsetting incident occur.

We began hearing dogs barking approximately 10:30

in the evening and could tell by their excited cries that they were hunting dogs. We assumed they were "coon dogs" and their owners were likely with them or nearby. We listened to them for approximately an hour and then everything became quiet again. At 1 a.m., my brother was awakened by dogs in the yard.

It was obviously a dog fight and he rushed outdoors to find three large "bear dogs" attacking his eleven year old Golden Labrador which was tied to a tree. These dogs were vicious. They did not respond to any noise or threats from people and were determined to finish their victim. There was no time to go for a gun and destroy these animals or the Labrador would have been history. It took physically beating these dogs with a piece of iron found lying nearby to finally send one whimpering off into the dark. Fortunately the other two followed.

These dogs were wearing transmitters. We now understand that in training "bear dogs" in our area these dogs are often just turned loose and the owners show up the next day to find them. Is this how "bear dogs" are trained? How do their owners know that these dogs are not pulling down deer, pets and other creatures on their evening runs? How do the owners know the dogs aren't entering campgrounds? We can assure you that no one showed up in our yard looking for them. If only we had been able to kill one maybe the owner would have come looking for his transmitter.

I'm upset! We had turned in late that evening after sitting by a campfire in our yard. I have a toddler and young son who were out in the yard with us late that evening. I also have pets I've always felt comfortable letting out for their evening bedtime routine. Now I'm afraid. What if those dogs had attacked one of my children? There are no phone lines in our area of the woods and therefore placing a call to an authority was impossible.

We understand from a conversation with the DNR that it is legal to train bear dogs on state land at any time. If they are not required to stay with their dogs how do they know they remain on State Land or hunt bear? Maybe hunting bear with dogs should be outlawed... it certainly doesn't seem the bear stands much of a chance being tracked by dogs.

Help! We're not sure where to go on this. We do feel that people should be made aware.

Notes from the Woods

By Nancy Lemmen

It was still not quite daylight when I registered for LOCAL MOTION '90 on Saturday, September 22.

It was cold and only twenty to eight in the morning, but already the course was marked and there was a general hubbub as workers went about completing their assignments.

It was fully daylight and the sun was shining when I returned at nine o'clock, ready to put in my time. I grabbed an apple juice and — I confess — a chocolate frosted doughnut, and set out to walk my laps around one of the cross-country ski trails at Hanson Hills, where LOCAL MOTION was held.

By this time, multi-colored balloons were hung, rock music blared from a boom box and members of the six teams were into their second hour of fundraising for the Crawford County Cancer Society.

What an unusual juxtaposition it was to the dread disease which we used to speak of in hushed tones as "The Big C": fun, movement, laughter, noise, color.

But really a great idea. As if the planners had decided, "Let's go out and have a good time and fight cancer while we're enjoying ourselves." And that is exactly what happened.

Participants could run, walk, ride stationary bikes, jump on mini-trampolines, play basketball and volleyball, ride paddle-boats, climb the hills or twirl hula hoops.

The only rule was that each team had to have one member on the course doing something at all times for four hours, from eight to noon.

The 32 participants ranged in age from Kevin O'Mara, who will turn two in November, to his grandpa Bill, who is 56.

There was face painting, a clown, a jigsaw puzzle for people to work on during breaks, and a balloon game with cancer information. White t-shirts with the LOCAL MOTION logo in black were given out to all who participated.

I was sweating when I completed an hour of walking. I probably would have sauntered around the course, stopping occasionally for more doughnuts, had I not joined fellow walker Chris Gerling on my second lap. She had been running the course, but graciously slowed her pace to keep me company as we both contributed our part to our respective teams.

We passed some folks who were walking at a strolling pace and others who left the marked course to run or walk a more rigorous path.

The sun had disappeared behind the clouds and rain began to fall by seven minutes to noon. But by then, the outdoor events were nearly completed, and team members were invited inside for a healthy lunch of vegetable soup and tossed salads.

At the beginning of the day, an honor/memory board had been set up near the snacks table and participants were encouraged to walk in memory of a cancer victim or in honor of a cancer survivor whose name was then posted in a visible spot.

ALL ABOUT TOWN

Almanack

By Richard Millman

Still a month to go

MANY FOLKS in Michigan have had it up to here — and beyond — with politics already this election year. That's only if they're paying attention, of course.

And there's still a month or so to go.

Political advertising and news stories and campaigning mostly seem to be headed in the wrong direction. Instead of telling how great they are and what positive things they believe in and intend to accomplish, most candidates are attacking their opponents, personally, and somewhat viciously.

That's true of the governor's race between incumbent Democrat James Blanchard and Republican challenger John Engler, and in the statewide U.S. Senate race between Democratic incumbent Carl Levin and Republican challenger Bill Schuette.

It's also true in many more localized races — for U.S. congressional seats and for posts in the state Senate and House, and maybe some others.

IT'S TOO BAD. Negative campaign tactics are old as the hills, yet they are rather recent, too.

Way back in history, political opponents said rally scandalous things about one another. U.S. Presidential politics in the 1800s is full of examples of nasty campaign tactics.

Things sort of evened out in more recent years. Up until recently, it was considered counter-productive for one candidate even to mention the name of his/her opponent. Why give publicity and recognition to the one running against you?

But that's all past the boards now. Maybe it's the advent of television advertising. With a brief spot — from ten to 30 seconds — a talented campaigner can throw quite a bit of dirt and nasty innuendo at an opponent; repeated often enough, some of it may even stick.

THE BLANCHARD-ENGLER and Levin-Schuette campaigns are full of examples going both ways.

All the principals agree the tactic is working, too.

Coming in for a lot of recent heat — at least from the Republicans — is the pro-Blanchard ad which shows residents of Mt. Pleasant criticizing Mr. Engler.

"If that's what they think of Mr. Engler in his own home town, how can he be any good?" is the question the pro-Blanchard ad poses. Of course, Mr. Blanchard is not shown,

nor is he even mentioned.

The on-camera performers are all Blanchard backers, of course. They were recruited by the local Democratic party. At least two of them have been Democratic candidates for local office this year.

Is that fair? It's an open question. But who could anyone expect Mr. Blanchard's backers to recruit for such an ad — Republicans?

ENGLER BACKERS, if they choose probably could produce a similar ad from Mr. Blanchard's home town of Ferndale, or from the U. S. Congress, where Mr. Engler certainly could find three or four former colleagues who don't think too much of Mr. Blanchard's tenure in Washington. Former U.S. Rep. Martha Griffiths might even volunteer.

But is it fair? Probably not. But on a fairness scale disgruntled party members probably are better than paid actors, who also have appeared in similar ads in other times and other places.

There's so much negative advertising going on that a lot of voters may be inclined to say "a pox on both their houses" and stay away from the polls. If there were a place to vote for "none of the above," that category might win.

If this assumption is accurate, then it indicates an anti-incumbent trend among some voters. Recent elections and primaries in other states also indicate a "throw the rascals out" sentiment. It could happen in Michigan's top races in November, too.

BUT IN MICHIGAN there's another slight problem.

If Michigan voters really want to clean house, and throw the rascals out, just which rascals should they vote against?

James Blanchard has been governor for eight years, so he's an obvious target; but John Engler has been in the legislature for 20 years, so he is, too.

And in the Senate race, it's true that Carl Levin has completed two terms on Capitol Hill in Washington, so he's clearly an integral part of any mess that voters might perceive there; but Bill Schuette has been down there for the last six years, too, and obviously must share some of the blame. Of course there's enough to go around.

An, democracy..... nobody ever said it would be easy.

The stranded motorist had worked himself in a dither by then. He said, "I just wanted to tell you where you can stick your lousy shovel."

The old man has got himself one of those new fangled Cam-Recorders. Now when I interview folks I can get their stories and faces down on tape and play them on my T.V. I hope some of you folks will let me make you the star of my little T.V. shows. What better way to spend a winter afternoon than getting the story of your life, times, and you down on tape. I know some of you old timers have a lot of history stored away in your head, let's get those stories on tape while we can. I can't write our local history if I don't know about it. So why not give me a call and we'll arrange a meeting and get your story on tape just as you tell it.

Saving Planet Earth By Carol Wakeley

Being concerned with the environment means being conscious of what is going on each day. It is good if you recycle, but you can go a bit further. Recycling alone isn't going to fix all the damage. There are no quick fixes. If we could stop all emissions, stop producing garbage, stop the killing of wildlife, nature would slowly clean itself up. Things would eventually get back to a normal condition. But of course these things are not going to happen. So what we have to do is reduce the mess we are creating each day. Maybe we can keep it from becoming worse.

One place you can start is in the grocery store. Become an environmental shopper. Following these simple steps can make you one.

1. Make a shopping list and stick to it. It is so easy to buy things on impulse. Especially when a product is packaged in a very attractive manner. This attractiveness usually means excessive packaging, which is going to be ripped off and thrown away as soon as you get home.

2. Plan meals with fresh ingredients. They are far more nutritious and use less wrappings, boxes, etc.

3. Try to buy items that are packaged in recycled or recyclable material. It will tell you on the package. Also, buy products in reusable containers.

4. Buy in bulk or large sizes. It will be cheaper and you will have less waste because there won't be so many smaller containers.

5. Use cloth shopping bags. They are durable and hold as much or more than a paper grocery sack.

6. Watch the way your groceries are bagged. Although baggers are taught to pack groceries in your bag a certain way, I find there is an awful lot of excess paper and plastic. Items that are sealed tight and already packaged in an outer container such as deodorants, cannot really harm any food items. I've never noticed the smell of shampoo, deodorant, or the like coming from its package until it is opened. If you prefer items such as health and beauty aids, cleaners, and pet foods to be separate from your food, purchase a cloth bag for this purpose only.

7. Refuse a bag. If you are just buying one or two items, it is senseless to have a bag. I have seen people request bags for a gallon of milk or a bag of dog food. You can carry them just as well without the bag, and no excess waste to the environment.

8. Read labels thoroughly. I apply this step when buying household cleaners. Bleach, whether chlorine or not, contains halogen compounds which are toxic to the environment. Phosphates from detergents create foaming in lakes and cause the algae blooms that choke out other aquatic life. Disinfectants contain formaldehyde and phenol compounds. These can be cancer-causing agents and toxic to the earth. Drain cleaners are corrosive not only to the drains, but to our bodies — inside and out.

New Law Affects School Bus Loads

A new law (Public Act 187) states that Michigan school districts are no longer permitted to carry more passengers on their buses than the capacity of the school bus.

To comply with the new law the Crawford AuSable School District will be double running some routes and adding others. It will also affect the district's policy on the issuances of daily bus passes.

After October 5, 1990, a bus pass request must be submitted in writing to the building secretary at least ten school days prior to the date needed. Priority consideration will be given to requests that involve transfer of students over an extended period of time, such as a request to go to a sitter's house after school. This additional time is necessary to allow bus pass requests from all buildings to be submitted to the transportation supervisor for approval.

Requests will be denied for any buses that can not accommodate the additional students within the legal limit.

"In the past we have been able to honor passes on various bus routes because we were permitted to have ten percent over the capacity of a school bus," explained assistant superintendent Paul Lerg. "This practice is no longer permitted under the new law. To comply with the change in the law, each building will no longer issue daily bus passes."

Lerg said the additional mileage together with the increased cost of diesel fuel will add approximately $15,000 to the school's transportation budget.

All routes will be scheduled so that transfer students will arrive at the Grayling Elementary School in time to catch the Frederic bus.

Sunglasses for Windows

It's like putting sunglasses on a window, says David Bibler, about applying Lumar, solar-controlled window films.

The Micro-thin, polyester-mylar films are virtually invisible when properly applied to existing windows.

But the films block up to 80 percent of the heat in summer and retain up to 65 percent of the heat in winter, says Bibler, co-owner of Quality Window Tinting in Traverse City, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo. With his wife, Judy.

Three types of films — reflect-tive, non-reflective and Low E series are available, all of which virtually eliminate the ultra-violet rays which cause sun rot, sun fading and sun glare. These films are all covered by a 7-year warranty.

Quality Window Tinting also installs solar control film on motor homes and passenger vehicles. All installations come with a lifetime guarantee.

County Road Middle East

All roads except private roads are maintained by gas and weight tax revenues.

Maintenance on private roads must be paid for by property owners. Grayling Township Supervisor Arnold Stancil said property owners living on a private road can request the township to set up a special assessment district and collect road maintenance costs from residents at tax time.

To create a special assessment district for local road improvement, 51 percent or more of the affected residents must request the improvements. Often townships will agree to spread the cost of paving from three to five years and add it to the residents' yearly tax bill.

"Setting up special assessment districts is time consuming," said Stancil, "but I don't mind spending the time because the outcome is better roads for everyone."

Stancil said the first special assessment district for road paving in Grayling Township was created for the Shangri-La subdivision off M-72 East. The township now has five, with two more in the making.

Grayling Township no longer pays for any paving costs.

Jeffery Tipton left for the Persian Gulf in July and arrived about 15 days later. A native of Grayling, Tipton is the son of William and Shirley Tipton.

Shirley said Jeffery sounds a little depressed in his letters. He said everyone looks forward to "mail call" and that mail from home is what keeps them going. Jeffery describes the Gulf as "real hot" and said he hopes to be home for Christmas.

Jeffery's address is AN Jeffery Tipton, Air/V1 USS Nassau (LHA-4), FPO New York, NY 09557-1615.

Last week the Avalanche published an article about a Frederic family who has three sons currently serving in the military. Two sons are serving in the Persian Gulf and their

At the beginning of Operation Desert Shield, Eisenhower's battle group was directed to the Red Sea where they conducted maritime interception operations and coordinated with air, ground, and Naval components of the multinational force in the region.

In the Mediterranean the battle group continued its support of Operation Desert Shield.

Welch is a 1968 graduate of Grayling High School and received his doctorate from the University of Detroit. A dentist, he joined the Navy in May 1986. Welch is the son of Mary Welch of Phoenix, AZ, and the late Les Welch.

The Avalanche is still uncertain of the whereabouts of Nolan Smith and MCPO Richard Campbell.

CARE PACKAGE SUGGESTIONS

Here are some additional suggestions regarding what to send in and how to wrap "care packages," taken from the September 24, 1990, issue of the Navy Times.

Under the heading of what to send, the article said individual packets of handwipes are especially nice for service personnel involved with mechanical work. Pre-sweetened powdered Gatorade and Kool-Aid, dried nuts, paperback books, and items like Detroit Tiger Baseball or Lion Football caps (if the person is a fan) are welcome items. Even if they are not allowed to wear the baseball cap, it will serve as a reminder of enjoyable pastimes going on at home that they will be returning to when their tour of duty is over.

New releases of popular music on audiocassettes, hard candy, and newspaper clippings were also suggested items for overseas shipment.

Cookies are always appreciated. One Vietnam veteran recalled that it did not matter if the cookies were crumbs when they arrived. They still tasted so good.

Do not send perishable foods and read all labels, keeping in mind the 100-plus temperatures of the region.

Care packages should be sent in sturdy cartons large enough to allow room for cushioning material such as newspapers. Use pressure-sensitive tape to seal the box. Do not use wrapping paper or cording on the outside. The post office will accept packages wrapped in brown wrapping paper and tied with cord, but it warns that this type of wrapping is easily torn. Print the address on the lower right portion of the box on one side only. Return addresses should be in the left hand corner of the package. To insure the return of the package if it cannot be delivered, it is also a good idea to put the return address somewhere inside the package.

Send packages first class or Priority mail. It should arrive in eight to 10 days and make sure to attach a parcel post customs declaration form #2966-A on the package.

The 12 ounce weight restriction was lifted on September 7, and now all classes of mail up to the maximum size and weight limits (108 inches total for length and girth and 70 pounds) can now be sent to troops deployed in the Middle East.

Saudi Arabian custom restrictions forbid all pictures of nude or semi-nude people (not even in swimming suits), no pornography or sexual items, no pork or pork by-products, no alcohol, no religious materials contrary to the Islamic faith, no unauthorized political materials, and no firearms. Tobacco products are allowed and all U.S. postage is acceptable.

There has been some false reports that tobacco products, Kool-Aid and mouth wash are not allowed and that mail bearing stamps with the U.S. flag would not be accepted.

Births

The following parents are proud to announce their recent arrivals at Mercy Hospital:

Clay and Angela Kreiner, Prudenville: Andrew Brian, September 5, 7 lbs., 6 ozs.

Vikings Bounce Back Big Over Kalkaska 32-2

The Grayling High School varsity football team upped its 1990 season record to 4-1 with an impressive 32-2 victory over Kalkaska last Friday.

Senior halfback Mick McKinney scored on a 17-yard run in the 1st quarter and then ran in the two-point conversion.

Senior quarterback Matt Branch threw a 55-yard touchdown pass to senior wide receiver Scott Nicholas in the 2nd period, but failed in the PAT attempt.

Senior fullback Dana Mirate scored on a 55-yard run in the closing seconds of the 2nd period, and Branch kicked for the extra point, bringing the half-time score to 21-0.

In the 3rd period, Branch scored on a one-yard run, but the Vikings missed the two-point conversion. Kalkaska made its only score on a safety from the GHS five-yard line in the 3rd quarter.

In the 4th quarter, senior Jim Liberty intercepted a Blazer pass and ran 90 yards for the final Viking TD. Again, the two-point conversion missed.

Quarterback Branch threw three passes for a total of 84 yards.

Mirate was the leading rusher for Grayling, with 141 yards in 15 carries. McKinney rushed for 54 yards in 11 carries and sophomore halfback Gary Schroyer rushed for 23 in seven carries.

"The offensive line did a pretty steady job," said Assistant Coach Mike Branch, "although there were a few minor letdowns in getting our counter trap working."

The Vikings succeeded in running the counter trap only twice in the contest against Kalkaska, but normally "that's a good, consistent play for us," he added.

Offensive tackles Todd Thorsen and Mark Andrus and offensive guards Scott Hartman and Max Prosser "played a very steady game," continued Branch. "Basically they have been the strong points in our offensive game all along."

"Defensively, it was probably our best effort this year," said Head Coach Don Stowers. "He attributed the excellent play to a more experienced Viking team at this point in the season.

"Our defense," he explained, "is designed for linebackers to make most of the tackles. To do it, the defensive linemen have to make sacrifices, be unselfish and play their technique right."

"We're the only team around here to use that defense," Stowers added.

He mentioned several key defensive plays which helped lead the Vikings to their victory: Mirate blocked a punt which led Grayling to its first TD. Thorsen recovered a Blazer fumble in the 1st period, and Branch recovered another fumble in the 2nd quarter.

In addition to Liberty's interception, seniors Tim Hough and Max Prosser were responsible for two others.

Senior David Teddy led in tackles, with 11. Prosser followed, with seven, and junior Scott Hartman picked up five. Senior Jeremy Beronet, Thorsen, senior Andy Barkway and Branch each contributed four to the Viking effort.

"Defensive end Jeremy Beronet probably had his best game so far this year," reported Stowers. "He plays smart. He knows how to use his technique and he does it. He's very unselfish."

Also, continued Stowers, linebackers Prosser and Teddy both had very good games on defense, as did defensive tackles Hartman and Thorsen.

Two defensive backs were standouts on Friday night, added Coach Branch: Liberty and Branch "played a very consistent game, with six tackles each and assists on others."

"It was a good team effort all along," concluded Branch. "The kids were well prepared and ready. It was a game we definitely needed because of our loss last week" (to Rogers City).

The Vikings were ranked 6th in the region by last week's Detroit newspapers. GHS needs to rise to 4th place to qualify for the state play-offs.

"This win helped us," said Branch, because Kalkaska is a Class B school, so we received more points."

The win also helped to keep Grayling alive in the conference standings. With their 2-1 league record, the Vikings are tied with Onaway for 2nd place in the Lake Huron Division of the Great Northern League.

Rogers City continues to hold 1st place, with their 3-0 record. Whittemore-Prescott and Kalkaska share 3rd place, at 1-2, and Lincoln-Alcona is in the cellar with a 0-3 record.

The Grayling Vikings host Whittemore-Prescott on Friday, October 5, in their Homecoming game. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

JVs Outlast Kalkaska, 24-22

The Grayling High School junior varsity football squad won a close contest at Kalkaska last Thursday, 24-22.

"It was a great team effort," said Coach Chuck Spencer. "All the players contributed significantly to the victory. Our kids never quit."

The Vikes scored their first touchdown in the 1st quarter and made the two-point conversion.

After another TD in the 2nd period, they failed to make the conversion, but later picked up two points on a safety. Kalkaska also scored in the 2nd quarter, bringing the half-time tally to 16-8.

Kalkaska scored in the 3rd period and ran in the extra points, tying the score at 16-16.

In the 4th period, Grayling scored its third TD and made the two-point conversion, pulling ahead to 24-16.

But with only two minutes remaining in the game, Kalkaska scored another touchdown. Fortunately, the Viking defense kept them from making the conversion and secured the game for Grayling.

"The problem again," said Spencer, "is that our offense lost its poise in the 4th quarter and didn't execute as well as we could have."

He continued, "Kalkaska was an exceptionally well coached team and played exceptionally well against us."

The head JV coach for Kalkaska is Todd Duncley, a Grayling alumnus and former Viking football player.

"Both Coach Wolcott and I were pleased at how well our kids played," concluded Spencer. "I think they hit harder and better in this game than in any previous one."

The junior varsity record presently stands at 3-1-1.

Girls Beat Whittemore-Prescott 60-41 JV Girls Improve 1990 Season Record to 6-2

The Grayling High School girls varsity basketball team split a pair of games last week.

The Vikings won the more important of the two contests, the September 27 conference game against Whittemore-Prescott, by a score of 60-41.

"Had we lost, we would have been in 3rd place," said Coach Howard Lehti. "But we won, so we're in 2nd. Now if we want a shot at the conference title, we can't lose any more league games."

Senior Nikki Morrill was high scorer, with 16 points. Senior Heather Stephenson followed closely, with 15. Senior Shannon Hinds and junior Brenda Moshier each contributed nine, senior Claudine Allen five, and senior Lisa Jo Barber, freshman Angie Meres and junior Cindy Fedewa, two each.

Stephenson and Morrill tied in the rebounding column, with 13 apiece. Moshier had eight rebounds.

Stephenson led in steals, with five. Morrill had two and Moshier, one.

Stephenson also led in assists, with five. Moshier had three and Morrill, one.

"This was our best consistent effort for not only scoring, but—more importantly—rebounding," said Lehti. The Viking rebounding was "above average, which led to our victory."

Grayling completed the 2nd quarter with a respectable lead, 33-20. Lehti said, in fact, that "most of the team played in the first half." By the game's end, the entire team had seen action.

Lehti was pleased that the Viking scoring on Thursday night was more even throughout the whole team than it has been so far this season.

Grayling shot 62 percent from the foul line, much better than the previous week, although still not reaching the team goal of 70 percent.

He added, "Generally speaking, the outstanding play of Stephenson, Morrill, Moshier and Hinds is the kind of effort needed for Grayling to be a contender in the league. This is what we've been striving for for some time."

Lincoln-Alcona leads the conference with a 4-0 record. Grayling follows at 2-1. One way, in 3rd place, stands at 1-2. Whittemore-Prescott, 4th, 1-3; and Rogers City, 5th, 0-3.

LOSS TO GAYLORD

The Vikings didn't fare so well in their September 25 game against Gaylord, losing by a score of 34-37.

"The game was actually won in the 3rd quarter," said Lehti, when Gaylord outscored Grayling, 16-6.

"Our main problem was not being able to stop their two big leapers," he continued. "That seems to be a problem for Grayling this year. Alcona beat us the same way, by getting the ball inside."

He added, "we were very fortunate in stopping their All-State player," whom the Vikes held to eight points.

"But the sign of a good team is when the others pick up the slack when someone has a bad night, and that's exactly what Gaylord did."

Morrill scored 14 points for the Vikings. Stephenson and sophomore Elisha Cox had six each. Hinds, five; Moshier, four; and Barber, two.

Morrill also led in rebounding, with nine. Moshier and Barber each had six.

Morrill had seven steals and three assists.

"We were happy to play Gaylord," continued Coach Lehti, "simply because it is a close trip. Gaylord always provides good competition."

He explained that this was the first game since he began coaching the girls varsity team that the contest against the Blue Devils has not been a conference game. "So not as much pressure is involved, but we still had the chance to experiment."

"We were in the ballgame at half-time," Lehti said, pointing out that the 1st quarter score was 16-11 and the 2nd period score, 29-22.

"We expected to come out of the locker room and perform," he continued. "But they got hot. They scored 16 points and we had trouble finding the basket."

Nevertheless, he added, "We'll be looking forward to playing them when they come to Grayling."

The Vikings will travel to Lake City on Thursday, October 4. The junior varsity game begins at 6:15 p.m., and the varsity game follows immediately.

well. Consequently it cost us the ball game."

The Grayling High School girls junior varsity basketball team split a pair of games on the road last week, falling to Gaylord, 44-30, and beating Whittemore-Prescott, 52-31.

Mandee Mleek, Amy Vandecar and Sarah Mleek each contributed six points for the Vikings in the September 25 loss to Gaylord. Heather Millikin and Darcy McCurdy had four each, and Jamie Andrus and Val Schans put in two apiece.

"The girls didn't play their ballgame," reported JV Coach Dallas Hudson. "We're a good defensive ball club and we didn't play defense or rebound well. Consequently it cost us the ball game."

"The girls went up there half-overconfident (due to their winning record) and half with a defeatist attitude (because they lost to Gaylord last year). And the game reflected that."

Furthermore, continued Hudson, "We shot very poorly from the line." The Vikes made only four of their 22 free throw attempts against the Blue Devils.

"It was very disappointing," he said. "But we learned a lesson and we're looking forward to our next encounter with them."

WIN OVER W-P

The Vikings came around, however, with their decisive victory over Whittemore-Prescott in the September 27 match-up.

Sarah Mleek was high scorer, with 19 points. Millikin and Schans each contributed eight; McCurdy scored five; Mandee Mleek and Vandecar, four; Andrus, three; and Jodi Denno, one.

"Whittemore-Prescott was very aggressive, big and tall," said Coach Hudson. "Our girls played good ball, worked hard under the boards and were determined to win this ball game after the team's loss to Gaylord."

Sarah Mleek

"Sarah Mleek had an excellent game," he continued, "in rebounding, scoring and defensively."

GHS still has to improve at the foul shot line, admitted Hudson, whose team was ten for 42 in free throws on Thursday.

The GHS girls basketball teams travel to Lake City on Thursday, October 4. The JVs tip off at 6:15 p.m.

"I understand that Lake City has a real strong ball club," concluded Hudson. However, with their impressive 6-2 record for the 1990 season, one might well say the same thing about the GHS junior varsity team.

Freshmen To Host Standish

The Grayling High School freshman girls basketball team dropped a couple of tough ball games last week against Cheboygan and Gaylord.

The freshmen Vikings fell to Cheboygan, 30-24, on September 24.

High scorers for the game were Jessica McClain, Heather Bindschattel and Sue Lovely, all with six points.

"We played pretty good," said Coach Mark Hartman, "but Cheboygan was tough and we couldn't get things going. At the end we started pressing, but it was a little too late to come all the way back."

Their September 26 42-15 loss to the Gaylord Blue Devils was even more disappointing.

"The girls were intimidated by Gaylord's height and just the idea that we were playing Gaylord," continued Hartman.

"They learned a lesson, though," he added. "No one was happy about the game and they said 'we'll never do that again.'"

The Vikings play both squads again later in the season and Hartman says that then "it will be a different story. They've guaranteed me that." Jessica McClain was responsible for 10 of the Vikings' points against Gaylord.

The freshman team hosts Standish on Thursday, October 11. "They beat us the first time," concluded Coach Hartman. "But we've improved. I think we'll really give them a run for their money."

8th Graders Split Pair 84 Runners Complete Hartwick Pines Challenge

The Grayling Middle School 8th grade girls basketball team split a pair of games last week, beating Roscommon, 32-26, and losing a close match to Gaylord, 22-19.

Nicole Parker was high scorer, with 20 points, in the September 24 contest against the Roscommon Bucks. Kim Haske had eight, and Misty Burden and Danyell Galvani each had two.

"Roscommon was a tough team again this year," said Coach Jim Parker. "The two teams were evenly matched. All the girls worked real hard toward the final victory."

A CLOSE ONE

Galvani led the Vikings in their game against the Gaylord Blue Devils, with eight points. Parker and Mandy Duvall were responsible for four apiece, and Haske contributed three.

"Gaylord played a real tight zone defense and had big girls to cover the inside," continued Parker. "We had trouble hitting from the outside. The girls tried hard, though."

The GMS 8th grade team hosts its next two contests, against Gaylord St. Mary's on Wednesday, October 3, and against Kalkaska on Monday, October 8. Their games immediately follow the 7th grade games, which begin at 6 p.m.

On Saturday, September 22, the Grayling Kiwanis Club in cooperation with Hartwick Pines State Park successfully sponsored the first annual "Hartwick Pines Challenge." This foot races covered a distance of 7.5 miles through Hartwick Pines on a two-track hiking, biking, and skiing trail.

Eighty-four runners from all over the state, plus Ohio and California, challenged the hills to become the first participants of this race. Runners compete for trophies and medals in eleven age group classification for men and women. The overall winner was Ed Altwies, a 23-year old runner from Toledo, Ohio, in a time of 39:39. The first female finisher was Vicki Putnam, 42, of Dearborn, in a time of 49:05. This first Grayling finisher was Mark Jurkovich, 41, in a time of 45:21. This gave Mark a second place trophy in his age group. Dr. William Dean, the designated runner for the Grayling Kiwanis Club, was the second Grayling finisher in a time of 46:42.

The first woman from Grayling to cross the finish line was Louise Herrick, 29, in a time of 52:42, giving Louise a first place finish in her age group. Gretchen Reiser, 24, of Grayling, took a first place trophy as the only finisher in her age group with a time of 58:28. Beverly Stockton, 49, also of Grayling, took a first in her age group with a time of 1:01:15.

The following individuals and businesses who sponsored the race or donated merchandise, food and time to make this a successful first time event: Grayling Holiday Inn, Glen's Market, McDonald's, Rainbow Fitness, Cedar Motel, ComputerWorks, Dr. William Dean, Great Lakes Bancorp, AuSable Woodworking Co., Goodale's Bakery, Vradenburg Upholstery, Mercy Hospital, Boy Scout Troop 979, AuSable Emergency Radio Team (ASERT), Bill John, Amber Meech, Corey Dean, Jim and Donna Carmine, Mike and Linda Smith.

Any businesses who wish to be a sponsor for the 1991 race should contact Ken Wright, 348-8022. Any racers who wish to be on the mailing list for next year's race, should write to Grayling Kiwanis Club, P.O. Box 151, Grayling, MI, 49738.

7th Graders Improve To 4-1

The Grayling Middle School 7th grade girls basketball team won an easy victory over Roscommon on September 24, beating the Bucks by a score of 22-7.

High scorer for the Vikings was Amy Neal, with ten. Jenny Wilkins scored eight; Mandy McEvers, two; and Sarah Mead and Jennifer Wallace, one each.

"The girls have their fundamentals down and are consistently working to improve themselves," said Coach Harold Meres.

Meres added that the team played good man-to-man defense in the contest against Roscommon.

A CLOSE WIN

On September 26, the score was closer, but the victory just as sweet, when the 7th graders defeated the Gaylord Blue Devils, 23-20.

Neal again led the Vikings in points, with 12. Wilkins made four, Brooke Blaauw, three; and Monica Lawrence and McEvers, two each.

"Gaylord is always a tough opponent," said Coach Meres. "We enjoy playing them. It was a pleasure to win the hard-fought game."

He continued, "It is a measure of our season how well we do against them. It sets the tone for our year."

The defensive and rebounding play by the Viking squad is what kept Grayling in the ballgame, concluded Meres.

The 7th grade team season record presently stands at 4-1.

Both Middle School basketball teams host Gaylord St. Mary's on Wednesday, October 3. The 7th graders play at 6 p.m., and the 8th grade game follows immediately.

Legion, VFW Auxiliaries Host Christmas Toy Party

The women's auxiliaries of the American Legion and VFW Post #3736 will be hosting a Christmas Around the World Party on October 10 to benefit the children of last May's devastating forest fire.

Betty Burden, a demonstrator for Christmas Around the World, will be displaying the Christmas Around the World's gift line from 2-7 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.

The Christmas Around the World offers gifts for everyone, that includes Christmas decorations, adult and children gifts, and other home decor items; perfect for year-round use. Their line of toys includes collector dolls, plush, animated and musical stuffed animals, religious toys and ceramic figurines.

The goal of the project is to provide a Christmas present for every young victim of the May 8 fire. To accomplish this, there will be a list of all the children names available at the Legion Hall and shoppers will be able to purchase gifts for one or more of these children. Shoppers will also be able to go together to purchase the more expensive items.

Besides purchasing gifts for the fire victims, shoppers can also order gifts for persons on their own Christmas list. All party sales usually earned by the hostess and booking benefits will go towards the purchase of additional gifts.

Some items will be available for immediate purchase. All orders must be paid for by October 10. Orders will take 2-4 weeks for delivery. Women from the auxiliaries will be wrapping and delivering the gifts.

Any proceeds beyond what is necessary to provide for the fire children will be used to enhance Christmas for the community's needy.

Anyone desiring to participate in this project, but cannot attend the Christmas Party, can contact Betty at 348-9589, for a catalog.

Lovells Extension Discusses Recycling

The first meeting of the 1990-91 year was held at the Lovells Twp. pavilion. The pleasant fall day lent itself nicely to the brown bag picnic lunch members brought. The roll call, "things our ancestors recycled" was nostalgic, and a preamble to the theme for the year, learning to reduce, reuse, and recycle. After lunch the group visited the Crawford-Otsego Recycling Center where John Miller, director of the complex, initiated a tour and gave vital information as to the cost of recycling, but also the consequences if we continue to be a throw-away society.

We are sorry to lose some member officers and committee chairpersons, Dorothy DeVos, Barbara Griswold, and Carol Gauthier, and thank them for past services. The office of Vice President will be filled by Delphine Nowaczky; Helen Proulx, New Homemaker; and Marge Wright, Sunshine Lady.

The October 10th meeting will be held at the Lovells Twp. Hall, with hostess Helen Proulx. Please refer to your Extension calendar and call the hostess if you are bringing a guest. The program will be an open discussion of recycling and buying recycled products.

BIRTHDAY VISIT—The students of Mrs. Christine Lauria's second grade made birthday cards and delivered them last Wednesday to the residents of Mercy Manor who had celebrated birthdays in September. They will be repeating their birthday visit to Mercy Manor each month throughout the school year.

DELICIOUS—The children of Mrs. Toni Johnson's second grade learned how to make applesauce last week. Mrs. Nancy McClanahan brought in cooked apples and the students ground the apples through a food mill separating the fruit pulp from the skin. Pictured with Mrs. McClanahan are Justin Neuberger and Daniel Mead.

The following exercise dealt with point of view. Students chose a point of view to write from and describe what they saw in the mall at the time of the explosion. All pieces were "on the scene" television interviews after the explosion. M. Ingvarsson

JESSICA WYSS

On the scene at the Appleton Mall after an explosion (voice of a rich snob).

There I was standing in Hudson's cosmetic counter trying on Passion Pink lipsticks. Then guess who walks in. Danny Qualin. The cutest kid in the junior class. Well, anyway, on with it. After Danny and I chatted I said "ba ba." Then there was a huge explosion. Kaboom! I was thrown from the cosmetics to the clothing department.

There I hit my head. I blacked out for a few hours. I woke up to the jumbling of my car keys in my purse which was wrapped around my neck. Which was where it was when there what seemed to be a sonic boom went off. "Get your sleepy hands off me, you slime bag." I yelled at the pickpockets. "Calm down chic" they returned. I was extremely harassed by them. Which made me even more unpleasant and uncomfortable.

I tried to move but my right arm and collar bone seemed quite sore. Great, I thought there probably broken, which means no more cheerleading for a while. Hours had went by. As the extremely long hours went by I could hear rescue workers. After they found me it took even longer to get me out. Danny Qualin was one of the workers to get me out. God is he ever cute. After they got me out of the rubble they rushed me to Appleton Memorial. There I was treated for a broken right arm and a broken collar bone. Later I found out Danny Qualin planted the bomb to kill me. The nerve of him.

Well, Danny, I'm not dead. I will never be dead where you can get my precious money. If you ever try it again you will never see the light of day again.

AMANDA ZUKER

The scene at Appleton Mall after an explosion (voice of a rich woman.)

So, there I was in the jewelry department of the ever so popular Appleton Mall. It was Saturday, October 19, 1990. I was just about to purchase this fabulous diamond ring, that the jeweler had in his hand, when I heard a big boom. I turned around and there was a huge fire in the next department down. Water started squirting all over, people were screaming, and whistles were blowing. The only thing I could think about was the ring. I just had to have it! I quickly turned back around and grabbed the ring from the jeweler's hand and replaced it with a few thousand dollars. I then ran out of the store. I ran towards the nearest exit screaming for help. When I reached the door I flew outside. My Limo was parked in front of me. I quickly jumped in and ordered my chauffeur to take me directly to the nearest beauty shop. Now, here I am telling you of that ever so tragic event that occurred earlier today. Oh, by the way doesn't my hair look so lovely!

AARON WESTERVELT

On the scene at Appleton Mall after an explosion (voice of a baby).

From the second I woke up I knew it was going to be a bad day. I had to drink some of that white stuff in a bottle for breakfast, had to get my diapers changed twice and despite all that I had to get in my car seat because we were going to the mall.

Finally after a long, hot, boring ride I was there. You know what that means. I get to show off my brand new 1990 baby stroller. Well no old people today, thank goodness. But there were also no little girls for me to wave at, oh well maybe next time.

Just as I was about to start sucking on my bottle I heard a big bang. "Dang Terrorist" I said to myself. I didn't want to let mommy know that I could talk yet or she might send me to pre-school. Anyway, mommy started screaming. I wanted to say mommy, cool it, I'll save you, but that wouldn't be to smart. Mom started to push the stroller so fast that I guess she didn't manage to catch that rock on the floor in front of us. I hit that rock and I started to fly. I enjoyed the ride but I was glad to be back down on the ground.

Look mom, the door I wanted to say. But she started heading that way after I pointed to there. When we got there we turned around to look at the mall and found that it was just a Nuclear Missile. I guess it wasn't such a bad day after all.

CALEB M. WININGER

At the scene of an explosion at the Appleton Mall (voice of a drunk).

Well I was sittin' outside this mall with this bottle o' Jack Daniels would you like a sip? No? Well anyway, I was puking all over the place and I was about to pass out when I started my car. Anyway I turned around and all these people were running' around screamin' and I tried to be friendly an' I offered them a sip o' my Jack Daniels. Oh 'scuse me for a moment. GLUG. GLUG. GLUG. BUUUURP! Sorry, but the alcohol level in my blood was gettin' low. Anyway I ran in, well actually I sorta stumbled in cuz; I wasn't quite myself. I looked around. Nobody was there. Then I saw that someone tried to steal a car that was to be raffled off. The person who stole it drove it into the arcade. That's all I can remember. Like I said I wasn't quite myself. Now where's that ten dollars you promised for this interview? The End.

ERICA HINKLE

On scene at the Appleton Mall after an explosion (voice of a teenager).

I was just like cruisin' the mall when I saw this totally gorgeous guy that I just had to have when all of a sudden I heard BOOM. There had been a big explosion. People were running wild. Babies were bawling there eyes out. It was very gruesome when a fat lady came flying through the wall started a fight. Opportunity of the Sears store and like landed on a skater dude who was in the sports shop at the time. Then a pregnant lady went into labor right in the middle of all the commotion, so they rushed her to the hospital. Everyone was yelling "It happened in the Sears Store." Then it was over. The babies stopped yelling, the before the cops and the fire-police had it all under control so like if you don't mind I am not a second too soon. As the door closed the building exploded! We were all lucky.

KEVIN LANGSETH

The Appleton Mall Story

Yo, my name is Ricky Referee and I'm the fastest pick-pocket this side of the AuSable River. I work the Appleton Mall. I was going through my usual routine when I spotted a broken gas main in the no smoking section of a restaurant. It probably happened when that biker rode his motorcycle into the restaurant and started a fight. Opportunity of the Sears store and like landed on a skater dude who was in the sports shop at the time. Then a pregnant lady went into labor right in the middle of all the commotion, so they rushed her to the hospital. Everyone was yelling "It happened in the Sears Store." Then it was over. The babies stopped yelling, the before the cops and the fire-police had it all under control so like if you don't mind I am not a second too soon. As the door closed the building exploded! We were all lucky.

Miss Williams' 1st grade
Tonight was a beautiful woods.
I was walking in it tonight.
And I saw the clouds moving.
The wind was strong.
And then I flew away.

JOHN JOHNSON

Mr. Hatfield's fourth grade
School is too long. It should be two hours long. I would go home and play all kinds of things, like Yahtzee. But mine is Word Yahtzee. I could ride my bike. First I would go home and eat candy, then I would pay attention to my baby sister, Mary. I babysit with her and I like to do it. I would watch cartoons and then eat dinner. I'd eat another treat like ice cream, then I would have to go to bed.

MELISSA WEJROWSKI

Mr. Hatfield's fourth grade
We need a different place for the gym because sometimes after lunch if someone had gym it could be wet. Mac cleans it after lunch. We have to eat lunch in the gym.

We need longer recess because it's short and when you are playing something you have to stop in the middle. The boys play soccer and they have to stop in the middle of it. The girls play house and stuff. We bring in a whole bunch of stuff about Iraq. And we put it on the back bulletin board. Sometimes he reads some of them to us. We talk about Iraq and Kuwait.

MICHELLE MURRAY

Mrs. Akers' fourth grade
The music teacher is nice. Her name is Miss Johnson. She is pretty. This is her first year here and it's confusing for her right now. We have music in our classroom because Mr. Brigham has the music room for his class. She teaches us a lot of fun music stuff, like Mirror Images. We have a part and the leader does all of these things and we copy her like it was in a mirror. The song "Here I Am" is one that I like.

GHS

By Angela Thompson

Four Grayling High School students attended a four-day seminar on yearbook and newspaper production at Oakland University in June.

Seniors Jennifer Smith and Joell Schans attended the yearbook classes. Junior Angela Thompson and sophomore Melissa Miller learned about newspaper layout and editing.

When asked about the program, Melissa said, "It was a lot of fun. It's amazing how much you can learn in four days."

During the seminar, students took classes taught by journalism advisors and instructors, watched filmstrips, and completed a variety of assignments in their specialty areas.

The seminar was sponsored by Jostens, a company which produces school yearbooks, including the GHS SAGA.

The students were sent by GHS to be trained for leadership roles in a new publications course, which will produce the SAGA yearbook and re-establish the newspaper, which has not been published for several years.

BRAIN TEASER

"Dad, I want some guinea pigs," said Melissa. "Susie showed me hers today and she has parakeets too."

"Sounds like the start of a zoo," remarked her father, "how many does she have?"

"The animals have fifteen heads and fifty legs," replied the girl.

How many guinea pigs did Susie have?

(Answer to last week's puzzle: bearing in mind only one child spoke the truth, Sally was the culprit.)

Resource Review

Bruce Patrick Conservation Officer

Recently, I saw a newspaper ad which struck me funny, in a sad sort of way. Someone was offering for sale a 160 acre parcel of land which was "prime hunting area with a trout stream and deer yard." As an added incentive to potential buyers, the seller also offered to subdivide his land prior to sale. I can't help but wonder what would happen to the prime hunting area, trout stream and deer yard after the property was subdivided, cleared and houses built.

This situation points up the basic fact faced by fish and wildlife managers: proper habitat is the single most important key to survival of fish and wildlife species. With that in mind, it is easy to see why the National Wildlife Foundation holds that loss of habitat is the biggest threat to wildlife species in the world today.

Habitat is an environment that supplies everything a species needs to survive: food, water, cover, and space. Not only must these items be provided they must be provided in sufficient quality and quantity. Each species has different requirements. For example, a Kirtland's Warbler and a ruffed grouse could not long survive if forced to live in each other's habitat. And how long would brook trout live where carp thrive?

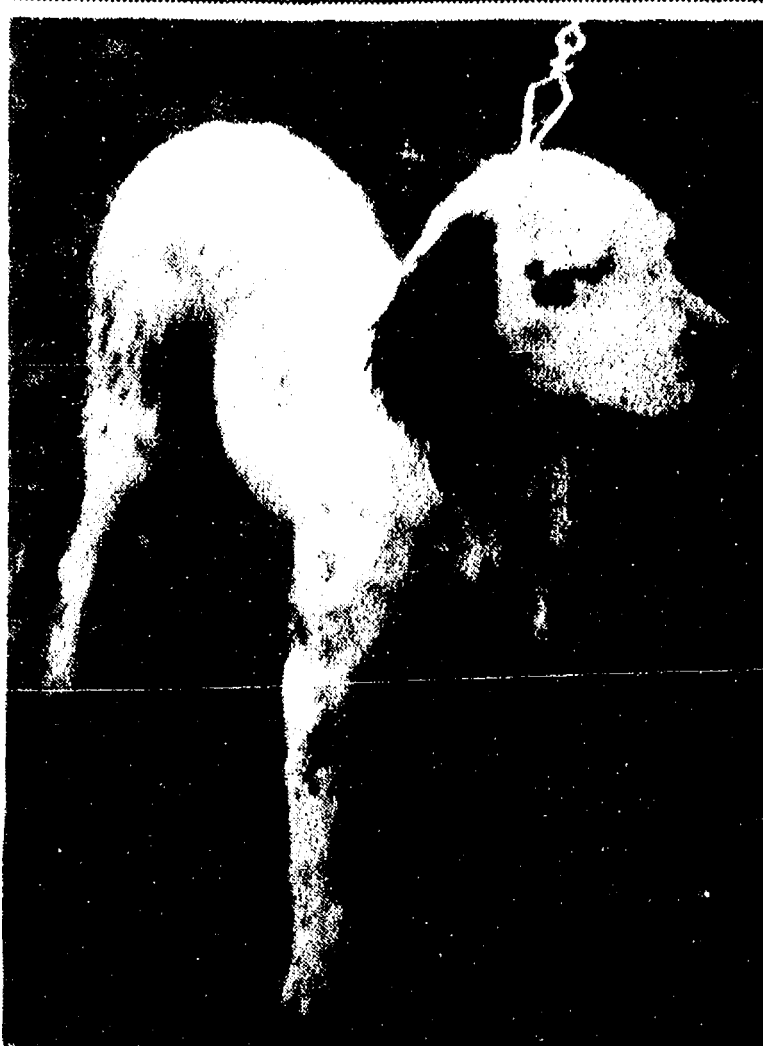

In some instances, wildlife habitat loss is a trade for a necessary increase in human habitat, but in far too many cases, greed and indifference result in unnecessary loss. A neat and tidy woodlot is poor habitat for most species of wildlife, cutting and filling to afford a better view of a river decreases water quality for fish and wetland draining to ease construction of superfluous facilities may well destroy waterfowl nesting and fish spawning areas.

If we hope to slow the drastically increasing rate of habitat loss, we must start at home, with our neighbors and with our government to be sure that unnecessary projects are not undertaken and what we have left is protected.

EXCELLENT PET—This English setter is about nine-months-old and is completely housebroken. She is a very nice dog and can be seen at the Crawford County Animal Shelter Monday through Friday from 1-3 p.m. on weekends from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Pet Care Tip

The National Humane Education Society recommends that people report strays to their local animal control agencies and insist that they rescue animals using humane methods of capture. In the meantime, says the Society, feed the homeless to prevent starvation.

Your Social Security

Regulations that became effective in January, 1990, increased the amount of earnings that disabled people can have while receiving Social Security disability benefits. It is expected that the change will greatly expand the opportunities available to disabled people who wish to return to work. Many of them preferred to work but feared risking loss of their benefits.

The change increases from $300 to $500 per month, the amount of earnings per month that is considered generally to be "substantial gainful activity" (SGA), and over which benefits usually stop. The regulation also changes the amount of monthly earnings that triggers a trial work period, from $75 to $200, and for self-employed people, from 15 hours to 40 hours per month of work in their business.

A disabled beneficiary usually gets nine months of trial work, after which the work activity is reviewed by Social Security to see if it is SGA. If it is, then benefits are not paid for any of the next 36 months where SGA is performed. But, for any month during that time that work is not SGA, benefits can be paid without the need to file a new application.

Many disabled people get confused about the rules that apply to their work and earnings. Sometimes they mistakenly think the rules that apply to non-disabled beneficiaries also apply to them. So, it's important to contact Social Security right away if you are receiving disability checks, and are planning to work. Special work incentives for the disabled may apply to you. This could mean you can earn more than $500 without your earnings being considered substantial. An example might be if you have special expenses you must pay in order to work, that are related to your disability. Medications and special transportation costs can be considered impairment related work expenses, and may be used to offset some of your earnings.

The earnings limit is different for people receiving disability benefits based on blindness. Earnings of more than $780 a month are considered substantial gainful activity for blind beneficiaries.

Also, the trial work period and SGA rules do not apply to people receiving only Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability checks. However, most earnings from work of over $65 per month will affect the amount of SSI that is payable.

Some special work incentives may apply for SSI recipients also, and may help the working SSI recipients keep more of the SSI check, and Medicaid coverage.

It's important for beneficiaries receiving any type of disability benefit to report all work activity, and to ask about the special work incentives. A free booklet, "Benefits for Disabled People Who Return To Work" is available from Social Security.

To report or request information, call Social Security toll-free at 1-800-234-5772, weekdays from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

A Look At Our Past

October 5, 1967

American Legion Auxiliary ladies turn social hour to business, plotting the local ARC funds and membership campaign. Pictured left to right are Mrs. Albert Knibbs, Mrs. William Scheer, Auxiliary Community Service Chairman, Mrs. A. Arwood, and Mrs. D. Milikin.

Grayling's 2nd Annual Carnival of Color is to take place October 6th, 7th, and 8th. The weekend festivities are expected to coincide with the height of the autumn color season in the Crawford County region.

Mrs. Bertha Smith Hanson of 402 Peninsular Street, Grayling, passed away at Grayling Mercy Hospital on October 1, 1967, following a lingering illness. She came to Grayling in 1902, where she operated a millinery shop on Michigan Avenue near where the present Rialto Theatre stands. She was married to the late Oscar W. Hanson in January of 1907 and had made her home here ever since.

Grayling has bright, shiny, new citizens. Private and Mrs. Lacey Stephan are parents of a son, Lacey Don. The baby's daddy is in the Army Ordnance Division at Camp Bowie, Texas. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Atkins of Gaylord; sons to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Short of Grayling; to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Howard of Roscommon; and to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lovely of Maple Forest. All babies were born at Mercy Hospital during the past week.

A number of our residents are improving their property. Kenneth Allen is adding a large kitchen to his home; C.S. Barber is adding a room to his house, where Mr. and Mrs. E.A. Crawford reside. The George Horton house has a new porch.

Another old established business concern is changing ownership. Jesse Schoonover, owner of the Grayling Buick Sales and Service, has sold out to Melvin Marshall and Roy McEvers. The new owners will take over next Monday. Jesse who is one of the best known business men in Grayling, feels that the business has been quite strenuous on him for the past few years, and also that as he has worked ever since he was 16 years of age, he is entitled to a little easier life. He will continue in the bulk oil and gasoline business, which will be conducted from his home. Melvin Marshall and Roy McEvers are no strangers. Marshall is a mason by trade and is a good business manager, thrifty and industrious. McEvers is one of Grayling's outstanding automobile mechanics. For many years he serviced the county cars and trucks at the county garage. Later he was head mechanic at the Ford Garage.

Can you imagine the thrill that must have come to Bob Smock, serving in the Armed Forces in Australia, when he attended a movie of Grayling Winter Sports? He must have been proud of his home city and it wouldn't be surprising if every button on his coat snapped off.

Gov. Harry E. Kelly and Senator Homer Ferguson stopped in Grayling Sunday to take dinner at Hanson's Cafe. They were enroute to Marquette on a campaign tour.

If some residents of the city wonder why their water was a muddy color Wednesday morning, it was because the city was cutting into its new water main running south on Peninsular Ave., from Michigan. The city crew began work on the job Tuesday morning, and now it is nearly complete.

69 Years Ago

Joseph Nephew, age 38 years, filer for the Grayling Box Co., dropped dead near the office of the company at T-Town last night. Dr. D.M. Howell, Justice Fred Alexander and the Sheriff were immediately called to the scene, and it was found that Nephew died of a heart attack.

Mrs. Leo Langevin and Miss Elizabeth are entertaining Miss Luella Palmer of Lapeer, at Lake Margrethe.

Mrs. Ben Shore and daughter Mary Jane of Bay City, have come to Grayling for the winter, joining Shore who is assistant superintendent of the duPont plant.

Postmaster Holger F. Peterson expects to leave tonight to attend the national convention of postmasters to be held in Washington, D.C.

An event which has been looked forward to with interest by a circle of friends, was the wedding of Miss Frances Trudeau, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trudeau, and Arthur J. Capra of Detroit, which took place in St. Mary's Church, Tuesday morning.

Prosecuting Attorney Fich is investigating an election scandal that occurred during the spring township campaign. If there has been fraud, the people should know about it and the offenders be punished.

We have reason to believe that J.P. Jensen has the champion pumpkin of the season. It weighs 76 1/2 lb. and is 19 inches long and measures 63 inches in circumference.

4-H Chatterbox

Hi, everyone again. Hope you all had a wonderful summer and are ready for more activities. We have quite a line-up of clubs already and more starting. The clubs already started are the Teen Group, Rabbit Club, Soccer Club, and Needles N Hooks Club. Anyone wishing to join any of the clubs should call the Cooperative Extension Office at 348-2841, ext. 265.

The Teen Group welcomes more teens and looks forward to a larger group this year. The next item coming up after this article is printed is a Middle School Dance to be held in October. We'll keep you posted on the exact date and time. Soccer Club has started out at the Grayling High School on Saturdays. I understand they have full teams right now but they are always looking for spectators. The games start at 9 a.m. and usually run until about 3 p.m. Come cheer your favorite teams on.

Tammi Galvani is again hosting the Rabbit Club at 7 p.m. every 2nd and 4th Tuesday. If you'd like to learn more about rabbits and showing, sign up today. Needles N Hooks at Sue Louchart's is every other Monday after school. Usually starts about 4 p.m. and goes until 5:30 p.m. She would welcome more students from 3rd grade and up.

We will be featuring those young people who had winning entries at the Crawford County Fair and other information on other shows in future articles. So please look forward—you might see someone you know!

Those clubs still coming up to get started will be the Caged Bird Club with Shirley Scott as the Leader, starting in November; Food and Fun with Leader Dawn Dandy, starting sometime in October with ages 9 and up; Cross Country Skiing with Linda Starks as Leader, starting when the snow comes and stays—maybe in January; and 4-H Dog Obedience Club with Linda Sprague, starting the first part of October. She will be teaching Square Dancing with Dogs. She has her assistants all set and boys and girls can contact Linda at 348-7209 or the Cooperative Extension Office. She would like everyone to know that the students did really well at the Crawford County Fair and also a big Thank You to the judges Dr. Rouch and Paul Smith. Despite the many problems, they did an excellent job. So kids, be sure and call to get signed up and ready, because many clubs have waiting lists or are waiting for names.

We could use other talented people as leaders and if anyone would like to share some time and talents with the young people, please call Shelley Hubbard, Program Assistant at the Cooperative Extension Office. She will be able to help get you started and has much material available in most fields. Maybe we could get a few leaders to help with livestock again or maybe something with health and safety? Many areas are needed.

The 4-H Leader Council has been working hard and is encouraging more participation in 4-H. There will be a Leader Banquet coming up in October sometime and more on that later.

The 4-H Leader Council of Crawford County will be sponsoring the Plat Books to enhance the 4-H Program by providing money for expansion and more scholarships for Crawford County use. Kathy Madsen will be seeking advertisements from area businesses. So when she calls please say yes, you will be helping with our young people in this area for their enrichment and future.

Chamber Update

The Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce would like to thank all of the volunteers that helped on the Chambers Membership drive last week. The Chamber is pleased to announce that at the conclusion of the drive more than one hundred businesses within Crawford County, and some in the surrounding areas, invested in the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, and in the growth and development of their community. A full listing of Chamber Members will be printed in the October 17th issue of the Crawford County Avalanche. Please watch for this "Special Status of The Chamber Report".

Business Feature:

Building a showcase for economic growth and community spirit in Grayling is the goal of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, who is planning to light up the night at an "After Hours Reception" on Thursday, October 11, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., at the Copper Kettle Restaurant.

"Building Pride In Our Community" is the theme of a new program to encourage architectural lighting as a method for showcasing the Grayling area's many beautiful buildings and landmarks. Architectural lighting of prominent buildings throughout the community will enhance aesthetic and security values, as well as, promote pride in the community's commercial, religious, and cultural heritage, and convey a positive image to visitors and developers. "We have many beautiful buildings in our community," said Chamber Executive, Deborah Allen, "and illuminating them at night will convey our pride in them to our fellow citizens and to our visitors."

Several buildings in Grayling have installed new, cost-effective lighting devices to increase community spirit through architectural lighting. These include: Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurant, Grayling State Bank, Advanced Business Machines, Goodales Bakery, and various other businesses throughout the community.

Co-sponsors of the program are: The Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, General Electric Company and Consumers Power Company.

Professional lighting design assistance is available at no cost to participants in the program from General Electric and Consumers Power. General Electric is offering manufacturer's rebates on the purchase of illuminating fixtures and lamps. Consumers Power will be contributing $50 or $100 per kilowatt toward the lighting project, depending on the lighting device chosen.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Woodman Retires After 17 Years With COA

On July 1, 1973, Joan Woodman began her employment with the Crawford County Council on Aging. She probably didn't know on that day what the future had in store for her. During her seventeen years of employment with the council and now the Commission on Aging, she has seen many changes in programs, activities, personnel, offices, clients, and Grayling itself. Through it all, her main concern has been for the senior citizens she serves. Whether she was assisting with taxes, medical insurance, bank balances, or trying to get through to an agency on the phone, her priority was to her client and to making things easy as possible for them.

Her efforts on behalf of senior citizens through the years have benefited them through hundreds of thousands of dollars in tax returns and insurance claims.

Her kind and caring words have soothed ruffled nerves and calmed excited voices.

Her smiling face has welcomed visitors to the office and her cheerful question "Can I help you?" has put many a newcomer at ease.

Her assistance and support to other COA staff has enabled all of us, through the years, to maintain a high level of service and commitment to the seniors in the county.

Now, Joan has announced her decision to retire. She and husband Stan will spend time visiting their children and grandchildren in California and Florida and traveling to other exciting places.

In honor of all her years of service to the seniors of Crawford County, there will be a special retirement party for Joan on October 9. Dinner will be at 5 p.m.

Please take this opportunity to come and express your thoughts to her upon her retirement. Please call early with your reservation, 348-7123.

Rehearsals for the "Messiah" will begin on Thursday evening, October 11. All rehearsals will be held at Michelson Memorial Church and will begin at 8:15 p.m. Rehearsals will last for about one hour. Anyone who would like to join with the Michelson Choir for the performance of this great musical work is cordially invited to do so, regardless of church affiliation.

Grayling Restaurants Offer Both Elegance And Home-Cooking Flavor

During National Restaurant Month in October the Avalanche will feature some of the best dining establishments in the area on these pages.

Beginning this week, three of the bigger restaurants in Grayling are highlighted.

THE GRAYLING HOLIDAY INN offers breakfast, lunch, and dinner in their terrace under the Holidome or in their dining room. Beautiful wood carvings, stained glass, and a large mural by Terry Dickinson accent the dining areas.

Chef specials are popular at the Holiday Inn and the Sunday Dinner Buffet from noon to 7 p.m. is one of the best attractions of the week. Saturday and Sunday breakfast buffets are also well liked by customers. Meeting rooms are available for groups.

THE GRAYLING BIG BOY is a well-known dining place for travelers and local residents. Recent re-decorations and the attractive plants hanging throughout the front dining area give the restaurant a pleasant eating atmosphere.

The Big Boy menu is famous for wholesome, down-home food and healthy choices. Their bakery also adds to a diner's delight.

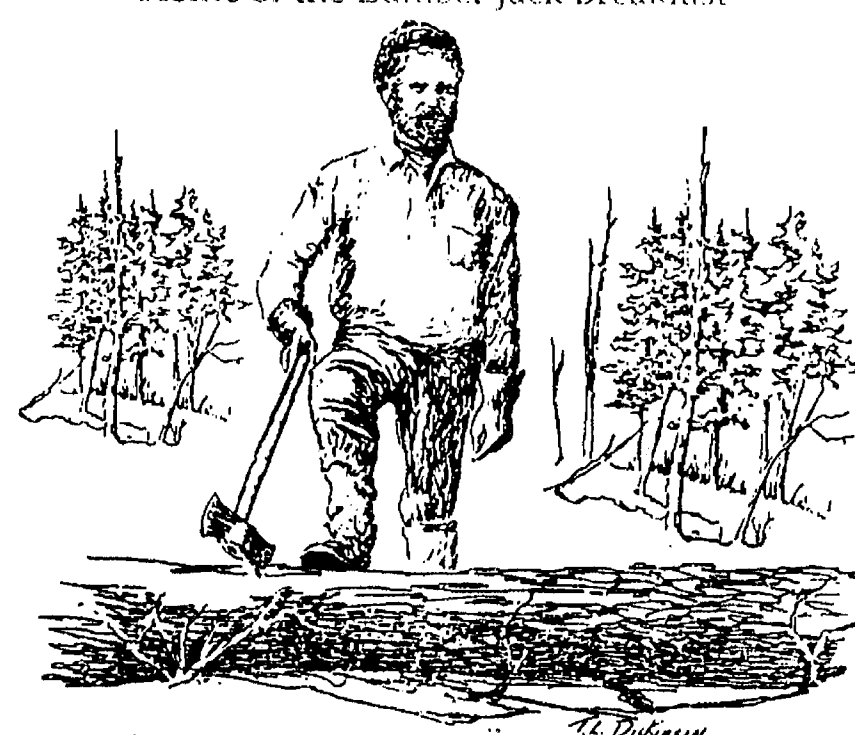

CHIEF SHOPPENGONS HOTEL is a popular meeting place for breakfast, lunch, and dinner in their three dining areas.

The large dining area is often festively decorated for holidays and special occasions.

The nightly dinner specials are popular attractions all week long as are the breakfast and lunch specials.

The Bible Speaks

The Real Danger of Mental Illness

Last week we looked at the growing involvement of psychology and psychiatry in the field of state or public education. The Michigan Model deals with mental health. Just as the number is rapidly growing in areas of mental illness, and the number of persons declared mentally ill, so also, the mental health facilities are growing at an alarming rate, and trained professionals are multiplying at an equal pace.

In jurisprudence, a person is innocent until proven guilty. In psychotherapy, a person is declared mentally ill by a professional and has no viable alternative of defense. Mentally ill can be detained against their will on the word of a professional. Medical doctors dare not force treatment on a physically ill person unless he is comatose. Once a judge refers an individual to mental health for treatment, he is hopelessly forced to obey without reprieve.

While Mental Health has all this power, their own leaders have disqualified their judgment. In a well-publicized Texas murder case the American Psychiatric Association told the Supreme Court that psychiatrists should be excluded from a part of the criminal process because their "false claims to expertise might mislead jurors." In testimony by two psychotherapists to the California Legislature Committee urging them to ban all psychiatric testimony in criminal trials, one attorney said, "Psychiatrists will say, quite frankly, anything you want them to say." Such testimony led Idaho to eliminate mental illness as a defense in criminal cases.

The psychiatric label was

used by Russia to incarcerate and punish political dissidents. Vladimir Bukovsky said, "It is not easy for the ordinary person to get admitted for treatment in a psychiatric hospital. For a political case, though, it is very easy. They are taken to a hospital without asking any request." He went on to say that the accused could not attend his own trial because he is "mentally ill" and the length of sentence is as long as the person is labeled "mentally ill."

Dr. Lawrence LeShan says, "Psychotherapy may be known in the future as the greatest hoax of the twentieth century." Psychological counseling deals not with the brain, but with aspects of thinking, feeling, and behavior. There fore we agree with Dr. Sher vent Frazier, chairman of the APA Joint Commission on Public Affairs, that "Psychotherapy is a form of education." The most dangerous and dreaded form of education for all nonconformists who reject the changing values of the New Age Movement, is silently moving into position.

ONE MAN'S FAITH...

The year was 1492. Most of Europe's population believed the world to be flat. Dangerous monsters and hideous creatures were said to lie in wait in unexplored seas and foreign lands.

Yet one brave man, Christopher Columbus, had faith that he could conquer those fearful challenges and reach the West Indies. After six years of waiting, he convinced Queen Isabella of Spain to finance his expedition, and following two difficult months of seas, although he did not reach the Indies, he discovered the land which would later be known as America.

It must have taken tremendous courage and faith for Columbus to remain true to his dream in spite of fear and discouragement. As in Columbus' time, we may find it difficult to remain true to our convictions in the face of disappointment and temptations. Yet, let us remember, as we celebrate Columbus Day, the importance of the impact of one man's faith.

As we worship this week, may we pray for strength and guidance as we encounter unforeseen challenges in our lives.
